The Reverend
Horton Heat

Issue 4 has arrived. In fact your holding it in your hands.

I'm being a little stingy in this one, there are only 4 bands in this issue. Usually I try for 5. This time around I present to you photo's of the MUZZIES, Snot Boy 77 (both from OHIO), the Fags (from Ann Arbor/Plymouth), and the Reverend Horton Heat (from Texas. Where else?)

Ever notice how most artists are never really happy with thier work? It's never quite perfect. There's always something wray with a painting, or with the way a song was recorded. For once I am quite happy with a photo. Usually I find something wrong or a photo didn't come out the way I hoped. But... the photo of the Fags on the cover turned almost exactly as I wanted it to. This was one time where I got what I was shooting for. It's a good feeling when you do something the way you want and it works. Although, it took years to get to this point. So keep plugging away at whatever you do until it works for you.

ILFORD HP5 Plus

PELLICOLA HP5 PLUS IN RULLO

Regolazione raccomandata dell'esposimetro 400ASA 27DIN 400/27°ISO

La HP5 Plus è una pellicola in bianco e nero ad alta sensibilità per impieghi generali e ideale in condizioni di scarsa illuminazione e per fotografie di soggetti in movimento. E' inoltre studiata per dare ottimi risultati con un'ampia gamma di sviluppi e in quasi tutte le condizioni di illuminazione. La HP5 Plus 120 è numerata sul bordo da 1 a 9, mentre la 220 è numerata da 1 a 40 per facilitare l'identificazione dei fotogrammi in tutti i formati.

Maneggiamento

Caricare e scaricare la pellicola in luce soffusa come raccomandato dalle case produttrici di macchine fotografiche. Conservare la pellicola al fresco e dopo l'esposizione svilupparla il più presto possibile.

Esposizione

La HP5 Plus ha una sensibilità nominale ISO 400/27° (vedi diagramma) ma con alcuni sviluppi si possono ottenere sensibilità sino a 3200/36°.

Sviluppo

I tempi di sviluppo riportati nella tabella consentono di ottenere negativi con contrasto adatto a gran parte degli impieghi, ma possono essere variati per particolari esigenze. Salvo diversa indicazione, tutti i tempi riportati sono espressi in minuti e si riferiscono a sviluppo a 20°C (68°F). Agitare continuamente per i primi dieci secondi e successivamente per dieci secondi ogni minuto.

Garanzia

Questo prodotto sarà sostituito in caso di difetti. Qualsiasi altra pretesa, in particolare di risarcimento danni, inclusi quelli concomitanti o conseguenti, viene esclusa.

This show was on Sept. 6, 1996 at ...

Scorpio McSatan's

Kung Fu Lounge in Ann Arbor.

4 bands that night. I missed the Firstone. The 3 others: the Muzzies, Snotboy 77, & the Fags.

As you enter the lounge, one of the first things you'll notice is the sign which reads:

"Scorpio McSatan says: IF you don't have $3... take your monkey ass elsewhere." All shows were $3 and at least 3 bands, usually 4.

Below is Chris next to said sign. Unfortunately it's hard to read because the film is a little messed up.

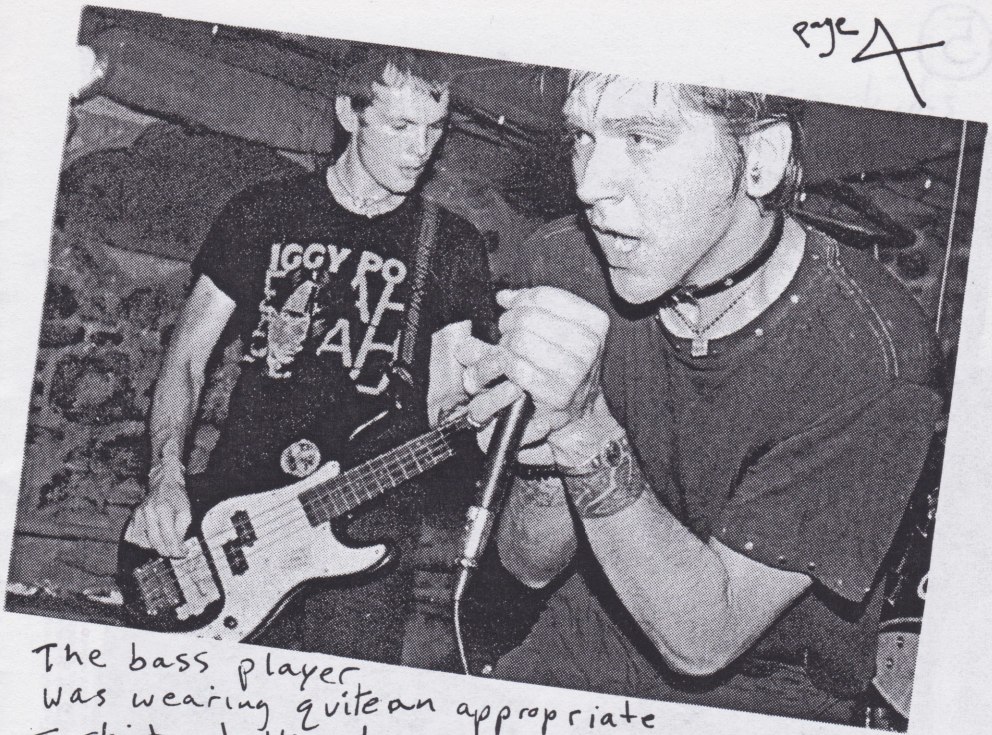

The MUZZIES

The MUZZIES came to us this night, From somewhere in Ohio. As the photo below might suggest, they played some straight ahead punk/drunk punk. I really don't know what thier songs are about, but they were an entertaining live band. The singer was thrashing all over the place, which made it a bit challenging to get good shots of the band... with him in it. He spend a good amount of time crawling around on the floor. If nothing else, at least they were a lively band.

The bass player was wearing quite an appropriate T-shirt at this show. Simply because Iggy pop was born and raised in our little town of Ann Arbor.

Storage Life of Mixed Replenisher Solution: Up to 2 months in a tank with a floating cover.

I think this photo shows what this guy's style is like. He was a lot of crouching and screaming, with the occasional 40 oz. bottle getting in the way.

These kids are also from

Ohio, our neighbor
to the south.

These guys went more for the straight a head, obviously '77, style than the Muzzies did.

Replenishment Rate: For all tank sizes, add the replenisher at the rate of 10 mL per roll. For example: use 50 mL for a 5-clip hanger and 60 mL for a 6-clip hanger.

I'm starting to notice more kids shooting photo's at shows. The one problem I have with this is movement. Nobody really move around at all, they all stand right in front of the lead singer and shoot from there. Doing simple things like shooting from the left & right can sometimes make better shots. Getting down low and shooting up at the band is usually good. If nothing else you can get pictures of someone's nose hairs.

There is at least 2
Snat Boy 7" out there. I don't know the title.

This stuff written below
is my crazy theory

I mentioned that these guys sounded like they were going for that straight ahead, pogo punk. I don't know how far east in Ohio they are, but I'm under the impression that this is the more dominate style in the east. It also seems to me that there are more poppy punk bands coming up in the west. This just strikes me as an interesting seperation. Of course, this isn't a black & white situation, there are shades of gray all over. That is, there are exceptions. I very rarely get to leave MI, but looking at records and seeing where the band is from & what they sound like... suggests: West coast has a bunch of pop punk, East coast has a bunch of straight ahead.

Would you believe the guy's visited Graceland? I u would have liked to have seen the security guards when they arrived.

What did the Fags sound like? Kind of like Minor Threat, IF Ian sang like a screechy girl.

(hey Carrie! NO offense)

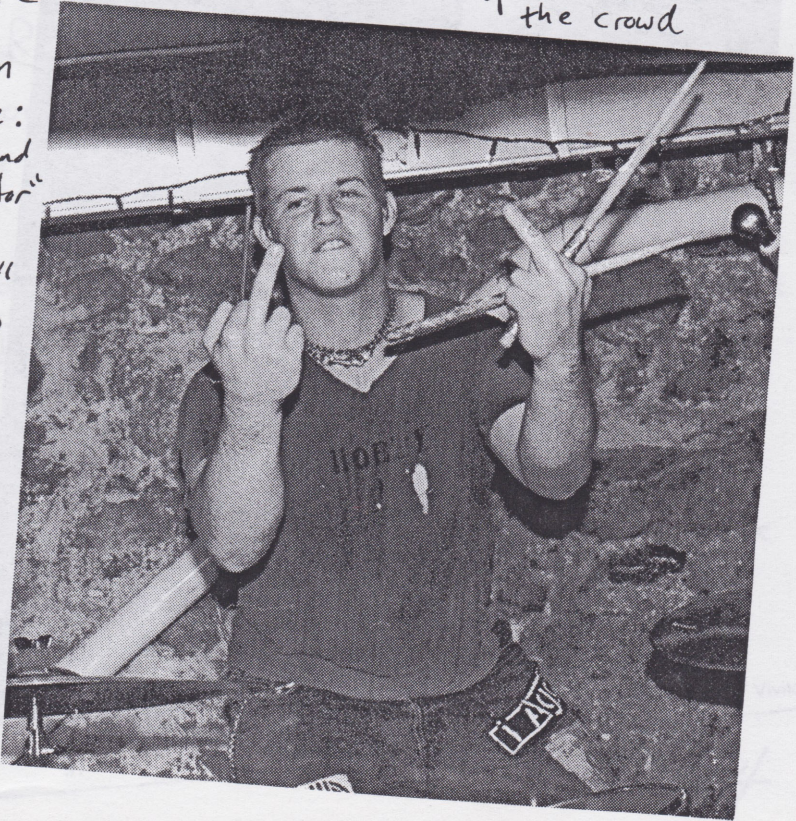

They had a Dead Boys attitude, In away: Young, Loud, and snotty. It maybe a little cliché... oh well.

The Reverend Horton Heat

The good Reverend spread the good words of his music around in Lansing, MI in support of his album
"It's Martini Time". Mr. Heat took the stage at Octoberfest, on Oct. 6, 1996.
I shot these at a outdoor concert.
We don't get too many outdoor shows here in MI.

NOTICE: Observe the precautionary information on the containers and in the instructions.

The Reverend and Jimbo

The Reverend played quite a set that night. Something from each of his 4 albums. Starting with "Can't Surf" and into such silly numbers as "Bales of Cocain" and "Big Red Rocket of Love". He finished with his infamous "Psychobilly Freakout".

At the end of the show, the last song or thereabouts, Jimbo popped some blood capsules, and was spitting out fake blood. It looks like these guys have taken some lessons in showmanship.

Look at the smirk on his face. He was posing for the photographers all night.

Everything in this zine so far, has been from southern MI. This Fried beaver recipe is from MI's upper peninsula.

FRIED BEAVER

1 beaver, cut up and boned Garlic salt
Salt
Pepper Flour

Pound boned meat to break up tissues. Sprinkle each piece with salt, pepper and garlic salt. Pound flour into the meat. Fry as you would steak. Very tasty.

OTARRELL

I made it through another issue. So did you, if your reading this part last. I never realized how long it took putting together a zine, until I did my own. This thing took almost 3 months. I've read a few zines that claim to have been done in a weekend, or overnight. Are these people lying to us or do they just have too much energy? Who knows.

I love feedback and/or mail, so here's some addresses:
